Philology

Through humanistic studies, we try to make our students aware of their cultural heritage, to guide them to a deep understanding and appreciation of the eternal truths and values included in the masterpieces of Greek literature, both past and present, to give them a high esthetic education and lead them to the development of a creative moral personality. But, even if the students are unable to realize the greater value of these subjects, they cannot be forgiven for not accepting the actual benefit, i.e. lingual instruction and the ability to express oneself and to resolve problems surrounding the basic structure of life.

Mr. Manolopoulos

Standing: Mr. Agorastos, Mr. Nicoltsos, Mr. Dardiolis,
Seated: Mr. Vourdas, Mr. Kalfelis, Mr. Mantoulides,
Mr. Georgopapadakes.

Standing: Mr. Kaplanides, Mr. Naoum.
Seated: Mr. Paparallis, Mr. Mavropoulos

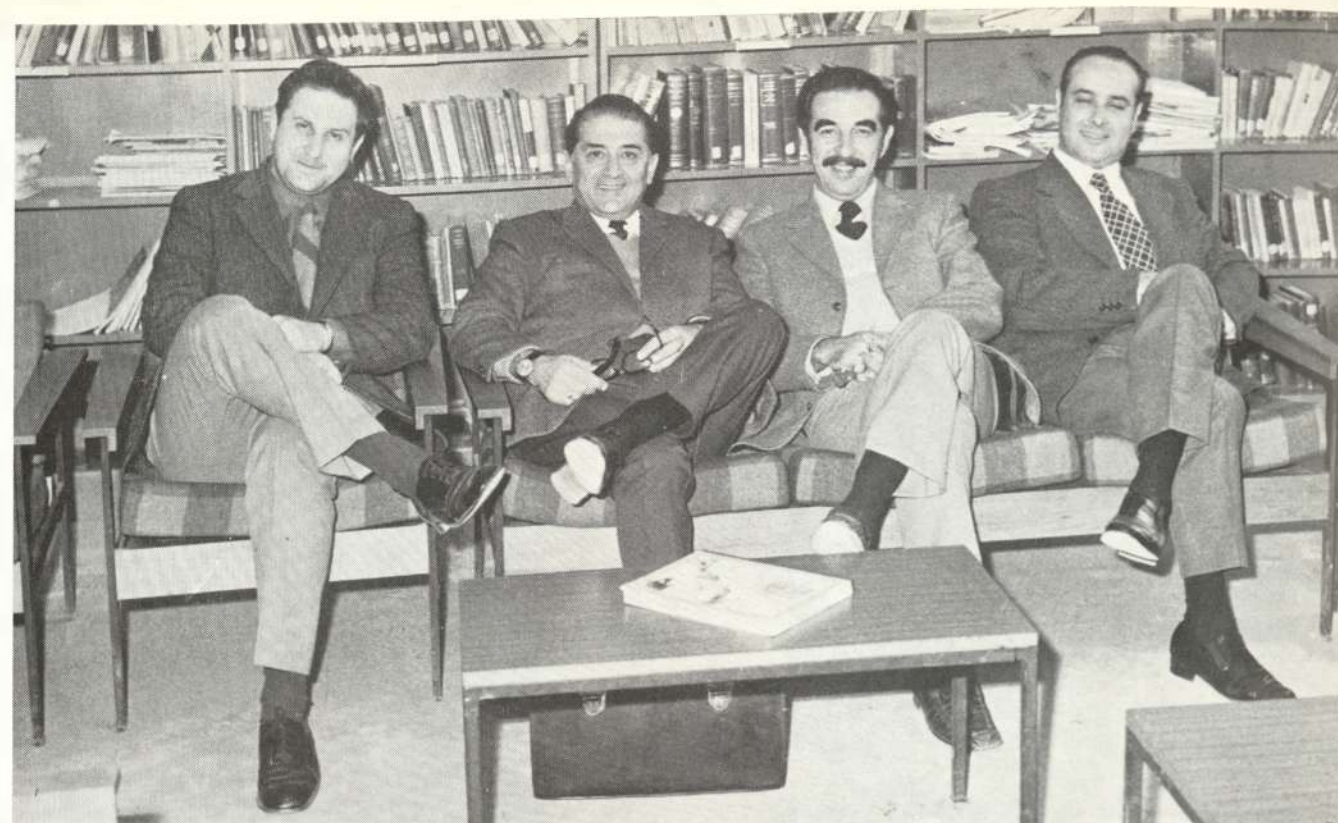

The theme for the English department for 1972-73 was "An experience in cooperative teaching" as the method of bringing together ideas, materials, and techniques to the teaching of English as a foreign language. Many Anatolia teachers accepted the theme of cooperative teaching and truly benefited from the exchange of knowledge.

Mathematics

Mr. Adam, Mr. Sideropoulos, Mr. Kyriakakis, Mr. Agapls.

Mr. Papageorgiou, Mr. Efstratiades, Miss Zika, Mr. Barbas.

Mathematics is the basis for all the so-called practical sciences and an essential aid to many other applied sciences. It is also a known fact that with the assistance of mathematics modern man has made massive improvements in technology and has realized an old dream - travel in space. But in addition to giving assistance to the general advancement of mankind, mathematics is an excellent mental exercise which sharpens judgment, trains the mind to discipline of thought, and develops a priceless flexibility for acquisition of knowledge.

Science

Mr. Nicolaou, Mrs. Malengou, Mr. Pentedecar, Mr. Pelmezides, Mr. Paraskevas, Mr. Filippides
Seated: Mr. Karademos

Mr. Mastoroyannis

The growth of technology and the perfection of audio-visual instruments (projectors, television, tape recorders, cameras, etc.) have given educators new means for better, easier, and more successful teaching.

In all school systems in developed countries, the use of audio-visual methods is becoming rapidly broader and new teaching methods are being developed.

The science department of our school observes step-by-step every new development in this field and applies here the best of these teaching methods. Indeed, we can unhesitatingly claim that the Anatolia science department is equal to those of the finest high schools in the United States and Europe. During the 1972-1973 school year and after careful consideration, the science teachers decided to modify and modernize the physics, chemistry and biology programs by use of the new audio-visual methods along with the laboratory work. The Administration of the school, after evaluating the suggestions made by the science teachers, made all arrangements, financial and otherwise, necessary for implementation of the program.

Mrs. Papadopoulou

Mr. Koufakis, Miss Papademetriou, Mrs. Falarl, Mr. Panayiotides

Mr. Lefkas, Mr. Papakonstantinou, Mr. Nouskas
Mr. Kehayias

Religion

The basic aim of teaching Religion is to inspire our students the high ideals of Christianity, especially faith in God and love to people. We particularly emphasize the Christian humanism, which is very important as well as relevant to our epoch of crisis.

Home Economics

Our courses are a combination of laboratory and theoretical work. We believe our laboratory courses - cooking, sewing, etc. - give our students a chance to use their hands creatively and enjoy making things by and for themselves. The laboratory hours create some balance in a school system as our Greek one where most school work is theoretical. Besides lab work, our subjects on nutrition, interior decorating and human relations provide knowledge and ideas that can be used now as well as in their future lives.

Mrs. Godhi, Miss Christofofidou

Miss Matejovsky, Miss Makri.

Physical Education

The purposes of gym classes are: the proper physical formation of the students, improvement of the students' health, character development, and development of special athletic skills.

Miss Leonidou, Mr. Doukas, Mr. Kassapides,
Miss Christodouloupoulou.

Art

The goal of art classes is to help students to express themselves freely by creating art; to communicate through color and to increase perception. In the upper forms design is taught to increase skills while a review of the history of art develops a desire to study the manner in which our period is expressed in art.

Clubs - Activities

Club Program

As a visitor walks the halls of Anatolia after the lunch hour, he finds many classrooms bristling with excitement. The club program is in operation.

Thirty clubs cover the wide gamut of student interest. In M-22 students are viewing slides of the diggings in Thassos in their Archaeology Club, next door a mock debate is taking place, just up the hall a student is soldering some wires for a project in the Electronics Club and on the floor below participants are gathered around a record player tapping out beats in the Progressive Music Club while young Aristotles are dismantling someone's theories in the Philosophy Club. In M-3 some youngsters are writing another book in Braille for a blind school as a Welfare Club project; they will print and bind their publications at Anatolia.

The clubs are chosen by students who wish to add variety to their day at Anatolia. It gives the teachers a chance to meet the students on an informal basis and to experiment creatively with the material they present which will usually appear in the form of enjoyable and meaningful projects. The public schools in Greece do not have such a program. Many graduates of Anatolia praise the club program for having given them an insight into American Education.

On May 17, 1973 members of the Drama Club and Debate Club flew to Athens to demonstrate their talents. The cast of Spoon River departed at the same time as the debaters who were carrying briefcases bristling with facts and important counter arguments.

Throughout the year Anatolia students found enjoyment participating in various activities such as assemblies, parties, the Bazaar, Mountain Day, Field Day, sporting events. The sixth formers had the advantage of an added activity - The Class TRIP.

HUMBLE IN VICTORY; UNBOWED BY DEFEAT ANATOLIA ATHLETICS 1972-73

School year 1972-73 has been a busy and fruitful time for Anatolia athletes, both boys and girls. As usual, Anatolia emerged as the basketball power of Northern Greece, and competed well in the other major sports.

The girls' volleyball team, under the tutelage of Miss Leonidou, won the championship of its district, defeated four other districts and then lost in the finals of the Northern Greece Championships. Boys' volleyball was less successful this year losing out in district competition.

The soccer team, led by Ted Argyropoulos, fought valiantly in a number of close games, but lost the district title by one goal, and went down to defeat in the annual game with Athens College 2-1.

The boys' basketball team crushed a series of opponents in district play and then fattened its reputation in a pair of games with the team from the aircraft carrier Forrestal. Led by George Nanos, a sixth form student and member of the Greek National Junior Team; Terry Theocharides, a third generation Anatolian; the Stanopoulos brothers, Zissis and John, and Christos Zahopoulos, Anatolia defeated the bigger and more mature Forrestal team on board the carrier 67-64, then played good host and lost a 55-52 decision to the Americans on the college court.

The Anatolia boys proceeded to win in their district and easily reached the finals of the Northern Greece Championship, where before a roaring crowd of 3,000 spectators in the Palais des Sports, they dropped a tense 49-48 game to the 10th Gymnasium of Thessaloniki.

The final action of the season saw Anatolia smashing Athens College 73-38 at Athens. George Paschaleis scored twenty points, and since he will be joined by Theocharides and John Stanopoulos on next year's squad, coach George Kassapides looks forward to another good season.

Meanwhile, the Anatolia girls' basketball team was not to be outdone. Coached by Miss Rena Christodouloupoulou, and led by fifth formers Athena Karamina, Marina Melithou, and Olga Kiatipidou, the girls swept through district play and won the Northern Greece Championship. In the final game Anatolia completely choked off the offense of Thessaloniki Third Gymnasium, as Olga Kiatipidou held their star player scoreless. The final score was 46-18.

In springtime developments, Ronald Barkshire took fourth place in the Greek National High School Championships in the 100 meters in a school record time of 11.0, and George Nanos was selected Athlete of the Year.

In retrospect, it has been another successful year in athletics at Anatolia, as varsity teams have grown out of extensive intramural competition, and all students have had the opportunity to participate.

Now that we leave the school, it is our task to carry with us the light that we have received.

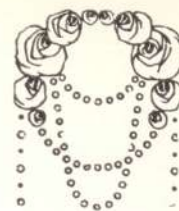

I will live not for myself alone; but for the good of my community, my country, and the whole brotherhood of man.
